Futures opened here 5 to 10 points advance on new buying for out-of-town operators, and remained steady. absorbing all the heavy offerings until the last hour, when the pressure from the South to sell out long contracts forced the market down to about the lowest prices for the day. An increase in the movement of cotton was the immediate cause of the ciling to-day. Although spot cotton was reduced 1-16, the demand is still brisk and the prices considerably above the figures of near-by futures. The break was facilitated by the condition of the speculative market, which became heavily loaded with purchases of futures both here and in Liverpool, which were forced out on the present reaction. In time the market will recover. and in all probability resume its upward

The rector of the Episcopal church of this city preached in the Presbyterian church yesterday, which was kindly ten-dered on account of the condition of the furnace in his church.

The candidates for the position of postmaster in this place are numerous, and can be seen on the street corners with smiling faces, and with their papers of commendation numerously signed, but each are anxious to make their chances doubly sure by additional names. The office pays $1,200 salary.

The Prohibition Question.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 29.-In the House of Representatives to-day Mr. Perry, of Greenville, introduced a bill to refer the question of prohibition to the people at the election to be held

The extreme Prohibitionists will fight this proposition, and they are confident in their strength of numbers. They will push through the bill introduced yesterday by their State committee. This is the most important question now before the Legislature, and it will create a hard test. The Governor and State officers fight. The Governor and State officers

Stirring Speeches by Colonel W. T. Atkins, Captain T. D. Jefferes and Others.

SMITH'S CROSS ROADS, Nov. 28 .-The follification over the election of the Democratic ticket, held at Boydton on the night of the 24th, was quite a success. The night was rather cold, but five or six hundred people turned out. The crowd was entertained with stirring speeches by Colonel W. T. Atkins, Captain T. D. Jefferes and Mr. C. T. Baskerville. Everything off without accident. About one hundred colored men took part in the cele-

Candidates for the different postoffices in the county are as thick as toads after a storm. It is said, upon good authority, that Mecklenburg, ten days after the elec-tion, didn't have one hundred Third party men and Republicans combined within her border.
